The excitement here is intense.

A CHANGE OF OFINION.

Special Dispatch to The Tribuna.

NEW YORK, NOV. 8—Sp. m.—Twelve hours have wrought a radical change of belief in this city. The Democrats went home last night, such of them as went home at all, wet, but jubilant. The Republicans went home wet, but not jubilant and uncertainty. The will-dispatches which caused tumults at Tammany late Tuesday were succeeded by more reasonable once early Wednesday. All day long the excitement has been at fever heat. Newspaper Row, by reason of its bulletins, has been the display ground of a most uncommon interest. Thousands of throats must be suffering seriously from hoarseness, yet never for a half-hour, with no exception for meal times, has the crowd dispersed or the cheering ceased. Tilden's party made the noise last night, as it has throughout the campaign. To-day it was the turn of the Hayes party, and right well it was improved when the Time put its figures at 30 o'clock showing the Probable of the put of th tion even in this city. I expected no such majority as I received, and I understood from good sources that the Republicans

BOUGHT 6.000 OR 8.000 VOTES, which would make my majority larger. My record is before the people. I have been elected on it, and I propose to administer the Government, if inaugurated, on the principles upon which the people have chosen me as their Executive. To tell you the honest truth, I believe at least one-third of the Republicans of the country are glad of my election. All these notions about restoring the South to the old status quo before the war are simply newspaper clap-trap. The Democratic party, in which the next Congress will have twenty-five majority, has no idea of any such thing. I am sure I haven't. The country will be governed, so far as I am concerned, upon pure, fair Democratic principles of justice to all men of all classes."

For the innocent and virtuous Tilden to have learned that the wicked Republicans bought 6,000 to 8,000 votes in New York and so introduced poll corruption in a city notoriously free from all corruption in the ld to be

A VERY SAD THING.

That the same good Tilden should have mentioned it shows how keenly he felt the blow, but the pure air at Washington, if he gets to breathe it, will be sufficiently reviving.

There is perhaps but one perfectly peaceful man in New York to-night. His name is Peter Cooper. He expected nothing and he has not been disappointed. His standard reply to questions regarding the election is: "Well, I haven't lost any sleep upon it. I simply wanted to sow a little good seed. The fact is my nomination and my acceptance of it were a good deal like backing up a theory.

A special from the Times' own correspondent at Columbia, S. C., says:

Our majority here is reduced. The Republicans claim the State sure by 4,000, but the Democrats also claim it by 2,000. I think we will pull through. All depends on Charleston County, still to hear from.

LATEST FROM FLORIDA.

Special Dispatch to The Tribuma.

New York, Nov. 9—12:30 a. m.—The latest from Florida is the following dispatch from Peter Jones, Secretary ot the Republican State Committee, to the Times:

In sixteen counties the Republican majority is 6,000, an appregate gain of 2,500 over the vote of 1874. The remaining counties will make the majority in the State 2,000.

The World bulletins are the source of much amusement. At one time they give South Carolina as certainly Democratic, at another Louisiana, then fall back on Oregon or California. The last and best was the claim of Illinois by 4,000 majority.

erally despondent, and the Democrats are not jubilant. The leaders of the Republicans here claim a chance for Hayes' election, but think it is a slim one. There was a general council held in the Governor's office this morning, and after long and careful figuring, the following result was arrived at: To insure a Republican victory Hayes must carry the follow-

was looked upon as doubtful all this morning, but two dispatches from Senator Morton fix the Republican majority at 5,000. "I think we are beaten in spite of this cheering news," said the Governor. I am inclined to think the Democrats have carried the country. It is necessary that the Republicans should carry all the doubtful States to secure a majority of even one, and I am inclined to doubt the possibility. I don't think that these dispatches of and I deprecate any such practices." One of the gentlemen present suggested that a matter of such national importance put aside all-con-siderations, and the facts should be given to the people. The Governor replied that he did not think so. He inclined to the belief that any-thing tending to excite the public

thing tending to excite the public

WAS INJUDICIOUS,
and that it would be time enough to change the gloom of defeat for the robings of glory when victory was assured. So it was finally concluded to keep the news secret till the doubtful States had been heard from. The Governor smote the
right, and looked around on the portraits of twenty-nine Governors who had preceded him.—a goodly array they made, covering the of twenty-nine Governors who had preceded him,—a goodly array they made, covering the lofty walls of the private office,—and as he looked at them he yawned, as if wondering how they ever stood the awful bore of an election.

The Hon. L. J. Critchfield entered with a correspondent of the New York Herald. Critchfield said: "Governor, are you way down or way up? The trouble with you, gentlemen, is you have not got enough sand in your beard. Here is our young friend whose hair and whiskers are black. If he had a sandy beard he would never wear the despondent look he has." would never wear the despondent look he has."
Now, the youth alluded to was the Horuld man, and his despondency might arise from certain complications not disassociated with ful and fearful frown. "Critchfield," said he,

"if we are defeated, I shall hold you personally and publicly responsible. The country shall know it is your fault, and the odium of disaster shall rest where it belongs." "I don't know," replied Critchfield. "I fought a good fight, I have kept the faith, I have run the course, and hereafter there is a crown of glory laid up for me." "It may be laid up for you above," said the Governor," but I don't think I see any sign of it down here. The trouble with you, Critchfield, is you have not got enough sand in your field, is you have not got enough sand in your beard." He stopped and thought awhile, and then, looking up suddenly, addressed your correspondent. "By the by," he said, "there was something I said in your presence that I hope you have not sent through. What was it now! I meant to have spoken at the time, but I forgot

I meant to have spoken at the time, but I forgot it." I asked if it was a fact that the computation of the Electoral vote necessary to carry him through was made by himself. "No, not that. It was at my house last night. Oh! I know. I spoke of seeing the moon over my left shoulder. I hope you did not send that, for I don't wish to appear as joking upon such serious subjects." I told him I had sent it the night before, but had sent it as an indication of the imperturbable manner in which he had RECRIVED THE NEWS.

He laughed at the excuse, and then assumed a serious air: "I don't care for myself in this election. I don't want anybody to think that: but what I do care for, what I think of most in all this turmoil, is the condition of the poor negroes in the South. It makes no difference to the North if Tilden is elected. Tilden cannot control the financial and business interests of the North. A few men may put their hands in their pockets, and say they won't lend any money, but that is

ONLY A NINE DAY'S WONDER.

In a short time business will spring up at the North. Parties do not affect that. It is one thing we claimed for the Republicans, that they were not responsible for these things. It is the same in Germany and in Austria, but with the South it is different. The first effort will be to practically repeal or annul the amendments, to make them dead-letters, and there will be that huge colored population stripped of every right, without even humane masters to govern them as they once had. The Northern men who are there will leave in swarms, and none will go there. Abroad they will look upon the South with suspicion, and I am fearful of the result. I am fearful of it."

He was going on to speak further, but just then a newsboy came in with Cincinnati papers, and in a few moments all hands were buried in the returns.

EXCITING DISPATCH.

Special Dispatch to The Tribuna.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—A dispatch from Chicago says The Tribune has received a special from Washington giving New York to the Republicans by 2,900 majority. The excitement here has nover been equaled since the War. People are pouring out of the houses, and the streets are jammed. The news is generally accepted as reliable, and the Democrats now concede the election of Hayes. Around the Republican headquarters half the oppulation of the town have assembled, and the air is hideous with the shouts and cheers of the crowd. Women are as much exited as the men, and a scene of enthusiastism and confusion prevail unparalleled in the history of Columbus.

The evening Associated Press dispatches were 10,000.

HAYES MARES A LITTLE SPEECH.

After hearing the news at the Republican headquarters, a crowd numbering several thousand formed in procession and marched to Gov. Hayes residence. In response to repeated calls Gov. Hayes appeared in the doorway, and after scores of cheers spoke as follows:

Mr Friends: I assure you I am obliged for this hearty demonstration, but if you will keep quiet about half a moment. I will say something to you which I think is my duty under the circumstances to say. While our present advices book favorable, we must remember that several of the States which have been considered depotent have a large territory remote from railroad or telegraphic communica-

Special Disputch to The Tribuna.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—The announcement of the morning papers that the election of Tilden was a certainty did not utterly discourage the Republicans, who clung to a desperate hope that the experience they were then the status of affairs. So, early in the day, the headquarters were surrounded by an eager, anxious throng, ready for the worst, yet expectant and hopeful. They were not disappointed. As early as 10 o'clock came the report that the doubtful States had gone Republican, and from that time on their feelings were constantly on the rise, with nothing further to cause depression. Late in the day a dispatch was received from Chicago announcing that the National Republican Committee claimed New York by 2,900. This created quite a flurry, which grew into a perfect furore of excitement.

and his despondency might arise from certain complications not disassociated with as the reports were received and read claiming for the Republicans the full list of doubtful States, they felt that their hopes of the morning even against hope had been real-tized, and they gave way to the most whiskers, and laughed, then assumed a wonder-time full states, they felt that their hopes of the morning even against hope had been real-tized, and they gave way to the most extravagant demonstrations of joy. were on the anxious sest all day, despite the claims of the Sentine and the concession of the Journal that Tilden had been elected. That didn't seem to exactly suit them. The authority wasn't official, and they felt that something might yet happen to turn to ashes on their lips the apples of victory. This was confined apparently to the rank and file of the party, the leaders being confident, and still offering to bet on Tilden's election. In the afternoon a dispatch was read from Wisconsin claiming that State, which created considerable enthusiasm, but, on the advice of Dan Voorhees and Joe McDonald, the crowd was advised to put no faith in the report until it was substantiated by the official report. After supper the scene around the Democratic headquarters took on and finally, upon receipt of the closing of Tammany Hall, they were shut up, and the crowd dispersed, in an infinitely worse humor than did the Republicans last night. Privately, however, the leaders still are betting on the election of Tilden, and, in view of this fact, some doubt was expressed as to the honesty of the action. Careful men are fearful that it is a gambling dodge. The announcement by the editor of the Journal that it would claim the election of Hayes was received with the most enthusiastic cheers.

A reporter for the Journal interviewed Mr. Hendricks this evening, in which he still claims the election for Tilden and himself; but he is not at all confident, and bases his belief on the ground that Oregon and Louisians have given their Electoral votes to Tilden. He is not at all cheerful. He has refused to make replies to telegrams asking his opinion on his own election. The latest returns from the State show that the Democratic majority will not be so large as was expected last night. Thirty-one counties complete have been received, which show a slight Republican gain, but straggling townships and wards still maintain the Democratic increase. This county shows a decrease of 113 from Harrison's majority.

THE ENGLISH NEWSPAPERS.

LONDON, NOV. 8.—The Daily Ness this morning, discussing the Presidential election in the United States, says the result cannot surprise any attentive observer of American politics. It cannot cause a reversal of the legislation of the years immediately succeeding the war. It is a change rather of men than of measures.

The Ness fears no injury to American credit, and regards the payment of the national debt in specie as sale whichever party may be inpower. It bases its generally favorable anticipations in a great measure on the personal antecedents and moderation of Mr. Tilden, who is likely to exercise a restraining influence upon the extreme section of the party. It does not as yet see any indication that the election affects the question of protective legislation. Questions relative to the South have been deciding forces, the Ness thinks, rather than the currency or free trade problems.

The Standard also regards Mr. Tilden's antecedents as furnishing a good guarantee of honesty and moderation of his administration, and a security against inflationism. The Standard congratulates the Americans on the law-abiding spirit displayed throughout the country, and Hurlbut's own unity went back on him, and Lathrop rried little Boone by 200 majority, and Dealb by 2,000 majority. The regular Republican andidate carries every county in the district. Innebago County's official vote gives Lathrop 119; Farnsworth, 1,405; Hurlbut, only 199. 1872 the county gave Hurlbut 3,506 and conson 1,804, showing a very small Democratic crease. John Budlong and George H. Hollist, Republicans, are elected Representatives the Ninth District. It is probable Myron K. very is defeated. Andrew Asston, Democrat, elected. Thomas B. M. Butler, of Pecatonica, as elected Circuit Clerk, the vote the county standing 3,737 for ruler, Republican, and 2,310 for Gerould, is elected. Thomas B. M. Butler, of Pecatonica, was elected Circuit Clerk, the vote in the county standing 3,737 for Butler, Republican, and 2,210 for Gerould, Democrat. Frank F. Peats, Republican, is elected Sheriff by a handsome majority of 2,115 over two competitors—McDonald, Democrat, 1,284, and Weaver, Independent, 639. The election of Mr. Lathrop by such a large majority, demonstrates that a sense of dignity in not descending to low personalities and faithful work for national interests is appreciated by the voters of this district.

WILL COUNTY.

Special Dispatch to The Tribuna.

Journ, Ill., Nov. S.—Full returns from twenty-three towns in this county have been received. The Republicans elect their county ticket, with the exception of State's Attorney and Coroner, on whom there was no fight, by from 200 to 400 majority. Hayes, for Congress, has 300 majority over Campbell, a Republicangain of 2,040 over the vote of 1874. Hayes' majority in the district will be nearly if not quite 2,000, which is a Republicangain since 1874 of about 4,500. In addition, the Republicans have elected two Representatives and the Democrats one. The Republicans of the county, with a few exceptions, worked manfully, did their duty nobly, and are jubiliant over the result.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 8.—The most intense interest in the election returns has been evidenced to-day in the almost total neglect of business and the gathering of immense crowds about the newspaper offices and other centres of information. The feeling has been one of suspense by both parties. The assurance of the election of Cullom elicited cheer after cheer, and the spirits of the Republicans are very muchrevived in the later returns. Both parties are sitting up to night awaiting returns. Springfield City, semi-official, gives Cullom 39 majority; Tilden's majority, 378. The whole Democratic county ticket is elected by majorities ranging from 500 to 1,200. John H. Foutch, of New Berlin, Republican, is elected mnority Representative to the General Assembly, and John Mayo Palmer and DeWitt Smith majority members. OAYUGA COUNTY.

'NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The official figures for Cayuga County give Hayes 8,009 majority, a Democratic gain of 205. The Democratic majority is variously estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000. BUFFALO.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 8.—It is generally conceded that Lockwood, Democrat, is elected to Congress in this District over Spaulding by about 200 majority. Haberstro, Democrat, is elected Sheriff by about 200 majority over Law-

NEW JERSEY.

THE LEGISLATURE.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 8.—Republicans have lost the State Senate, which stands Democrats, 11; Republicans, 10. The Republicans have carried the House of Assembly by 2 majority; carried the House of Assembly by 2 majority; it standing, Republicans, 31; Democrats, 29. Both Houses on joint ballot will therefore stand, Republicans, 41; Democrats, 40. Republican majority, 1.

The Democrats still claim that they have carried another member in the Southern District, but the above figures are reliable.

ALABAMA.

CONGRESSMEN ELECTED.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 8.—Returns tinue to indicate at least 25,000 majority for Til-den. For Congress, Herbert in the Second, Williams in the Third, Ligon in the Fifth, Powett in the Sixth, Forney in the Seventh, and Garth in the Eighth District, all Democrats, are elected. The returns are favorable to Jones, Democratic, over Bromberg. Shelley, Democrat, makes immense gains in the Fourth District, and is very hopeful of an election over Haralson and Rapier, the irval colored candidates.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 8.—Further returns from the Fourth District show the contest close between Haralson colored, and Gen. Shelley, Democrat. Shelley has made great gains.

VIRGINIA.

NEARLY ALL ONE WAY. RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 8.—But little interes seems to be taken in the Virginia election, as nearly everything in the State is one-sided. Numerous but incomplete returns from every section indicate that Tilden's majority will run over 30,000. The Democrats elect eight Congressmen certain, which leaves one district—the Fourth—in doubt, with a very strong probability of the election of Jorgensen, Republican, over Hunton, Democrat, in that district.

TENNESSEE. STILL EXCITED. MEMPHIS, Nov. 8.—There is little abatement of the excitement in regard to the election Large crowds surround the bulletin boards yet.
Thomas, Independent, for Governor, carries this county by 2,800, Hardiman County by 149, Haywood County by 1,800. Porter, Democrat, Haywood County by 1,800. Porter, Democrat, for Governor, carries Weakly County by 1,100. Young, Democrat, is elected to Congress in this, the TenthDistrict, by over 900 majority.

The election in West Tennessee, North Mississippi, and Eastern Arkansas was musually quiet. Not a single disturbance reported. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 8.—Tilden's majority in this city is 1,058, and Dorsey Thomas, Independent, for Governor, has 1,469. Young, Democrat, is re-elected to Congress, by about 500 majority. The entire Democratic county ticket is elected.

ARKANSAS. CONGRESSMEN. LTTTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 8.—Returns from LITTLE ROCE, Ark., Nov. 8.—Returns from all parts of the State show a vote smaller than at the State election in October. For Congressmen, Gause, Democrat, in the First District, is elected without opposition. In the Second District the election of Slemmons, Democrat, over Snyder, Republican, is conceded by the Republicans. The Third District, in which Little Rock is situated, is close between McClure, Republican, and Stuart, Democrat, and Crawens, Democrat. It is claimed by the Republicans, but will require the official count, and in the Fourth District Gunter is elected without opposition.

KENTUCKY.

UNCERTAINTY. LOUISVILLS, Ky., Nov. 8.—The excitement here over the general election has been most intense since last evening. The streets were thronged with people, eager, anxious mass thronged with people, eager, anxious masses surrounding the newspaper offices to hear latest returns. The "thou-art-so-near-and-yet-so-far" votes to confirm Tilden's election produce great interest and intense excitement throughout the city and State. Returns from Kentucky are very meagre, but show Democratic gains most everywhere.

Mr. Henry Watterson is addressing a crowd before the Courier-Journal office, and claims Tilden's election as certain with 200 electoral votes.

GEORGIA. CONGRESSMEN.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—Georgia sends an unbroken Democratic delegation to Congress. The majority for Tilden is about 75,000.

WEST VIRGINIA. SOLID FOR TILDEN.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 8.—This State will give about 17,000 majority for Tilden. All three Democratic Congressmen are elected. CONNECTICUT.

THE DEN'S MAJORITY.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 8.—Tilden's majority, with three towns to hear from, is 2,824. DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY.
WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 8.—The Democrati najority in this State will reach 2,600. MISSOURI.

ST. JOSEPH. Mo., Nov. 8.—Tilden has a very small majority in this city; Loan, Republican, for Congress, 300 majority in the city; Rea, Democrat, for Congress, has 650 majority in this county, and is elected in the district by 1,300

Sr. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—Unofficial returns give Anthony Itner, Republican, in the First District of this city, about 200 majority, and Nathan Cole, Republican, in the Second District, 300 to 400 majority. These are Republican gains, the first over E. C. Kehr, the latter over Erastus Wells, both the present members. In the Third District R. G. Frost, De mocrat, is elected over L. S. Metcalf, Republican, by a small majority. In the districts outside the city the Sixth is reported carried by Havens, Republican, by 300 majority, and the Tenth by Follard, Republican, by 1,200 majority, beating Diebolt, the present incumbent.

FURTHER RETURNS.

Sr. LOUIS, Nov. S.—Mercer County gives Hayes a majority of $45; Finklenburg (Republican), for Governor, 509.

Manifesta County, Democratic majority 453,—national and State tickets.

Davis County, Tilden's majority 194. About the same in the State and Congressional tickets.

Putnam County—Frobable Republican majority, 5,000.

Sullivan County—Republican majority 18.

Massasypt County—Democratic majority 18.

probably for Havens.

The Republicans carry the county ticket in this county except Probate Judge, Public Administrator, and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney. Emil Thomas leads the ticket for Sheriff by 3,500 majority over ex-Mayor Brown, and the remainder of the Republican candidates have an average majority of 1,500.

DOUBTFUL.

LOUISIANA. NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8-10:30 p. m.—Returns from about half the wards in the Parish of Orleans show large Republican gains from the vote of 1874, and, except in the five parishes which have been Ku-Kluxed for the past year, the returns show Republican gains all over the State Notwithstanding the vote of these Ku-Kluxed parishes, however, Louisiana may be relied upon to give a good Republican majority, in the face of all Democratic reports to the contrary. So far, the returns from the interior have been mainly from the Democratic strongholds. Not one of the large Republican parishes has been heard from, and leading Republicans have not a doubt that the State will give 10,000 Republican majority. The Parish of BAST PELICIAN, which, in 1870, gave 1,273 Republican majority, in 1872 1,600, and in 1874 1,689, this year did not give a Republican vote. In those parishes, however, where Republicans were safe the party was well organized and enthusiastic, and their vote will more than countries. teract the intimidation of the buildoggers Louisiana is sure for from 10,000 to 12,000 ma lority for Hayes, Wheeler, and Packard.

THE CONFEDERATE FRESS AGENT SATS SO.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 8.—The following special is from a Democratic source:

CLINTON, Eart Feliciana Parish, Nov. 8.—Owing to the fallure of the Registrar to fill his appointments, a large number of voters were not registered. Seventeen hundred and forty-three registered votes failed, of which Hayes got three and Tilden the balance. At the poll conducted under the United States Supervisor 443 voters who had been unable to register deposited their ballots in a separate box. The Democrats refrained from voting. There was no intimidation. The gross number of votes were within 300 of the number at the last election. Many Democratic voters were deterred by want of registration. Whites and blacks fraternized, and all are happy and inbilant.

Note.—The above majority, 1,740, shows a Democratic gain of 2,581 over 1874.

Prominent Republicans say the voting in East Feliciana was informal, and the votes will not be canvassed by the Returning Board, the Registrar sent there having been run off. It is intimated that other Democratic parishes will be treated the same way for similar reasons. Charges of intimidation, fraud, &c., will be made.

Ouachita Parish has a Democratic majority of 1,087, a Democratic gain of 1,915 over the vote of 1874, when Dubucklet, Republican, received 838 majority.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8—Midnight.—In eleven parishes partial official returns and estimates show a net Democratic gain of 7,127 over Democratic Conservative Committee's returns of 74, which elected Moneure, Democrat, Treasurer by show a net Democratic gain of 7,127 over Democratic Conservative Committee's returns of 74, which elected Moncare, Democrat, Treasurer by 2,939. The above indicates that the Democrats have carried the State by 15,000 to 20,000, and it is claimed by the Democratic Committee. The Democratic majority in the city will probably reach 11,000. The Republicans claim the State for the Republicans in 10,000 to 15,000.

DRLHI, La., Nov. 8.—First Ward, Richland Parish, Tilden, 208; Hayes, none; Congress, Farmer, Democrat, 206; Lorard, Republican, nothing; Nichols, Democrat, for Governor, 208; Packard, nothing. The Democratic ticket here is a unit.

To the Western Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—The following official and unofficial returns of parishes has been received: Iberia, Republican, 1,453; Democratic, 1,946; Republican gain, 377; Calcarian, Democratic, 1,941; Republican, 95; net Republican gain, 25; West Feliciana, Democratic by 250 to 300 majority; Democratic gain, 1,109; Jackson, Democratic gain, 265. These comparisons are made with the 1874 returns of the Democratic Conservative Committee as published in the World Almanac. The election was peaceable and quiet. No disturbance is reported from any quarter of the State. Reis reported from any quarter of the State. Re-ports show that the Democrats polled a heavy negro vote in the interior parishes.

LAKE CITT, Fla., Nov. 8—The opinion of LAKE CITY, Fla., Nov. 8.—The opinion of moderate men is that Florida will elect the entire Democratic State ticket by over 2,000 majority. Democratic gains are large in all the counties with three or four exceptions.

LAKE CITY, Fla., Nov. 8.—10 p. m.—Alachua, Baker, Bradford, Clay, Columbia, Duval, Hamilton, Madison, Monroe, Nassus, Putnam, Suawaney, Levy, Marion, report an aggregate Democratic majorities in Montee, Silsborough, Hernando, Polk, and Sumter at 2,500. We estimate the Democratic majorities in montee, Silsborough, Hernando, Polk, and Sumter at 2,500. We estimate the Democratic majorities in counties west of Apalachicola at 2,000. We estimate the remaining counties at the majority of 1874. This secures a Democratic majority of 2,550. AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—Florida is claimed by the Democrats by from 2,000 to 2,500 majority. Returns show Democratic gains.

NORTH CAROLINA.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 8.—Returns continue to come in reporting heavy Democratic gains from all quarters. The Democratic majority in the State will hardly fall short of 15,000. Special Dispatch to The Tribuna.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—3 a. m.—A special to the NEW YORK, Nov. 9—2 a. m.—A special to the Time from Columbia, S. C., says there is no doubt about South Carolina. With two Republican counties to hear from the majority for Hayes is over 3,000. The Republican Committee claim that their majority will be fully 5,000. The Democrats concede the State to Hayes.

The Congressional delegation will stand three Republicans and two Democrats, a loss of two. The Legislature will be Republican by a small majority.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—South Carolina is still in doubt. Both parties claim the State. The indications are that the Hayes electoral ticket is elected. It is claimed by the Republicans that Chamberiain's majority in Beaufort, Sumpter, Colleton, and Charleston will overcome Hampton's majority. The Democrats casim Hampton's election, but say the result is very close.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 8.—The Republican and Democratic Committees are still widely at variance as to the result in this State. The former claim 8,000 majority for Chamberiain, but withhold the details of their estimates. The latter, conceding every county unheard from to have grone according to Republican predictions, claim that Hampton is certainly elected. The dispute will hardly be settled before to-morrow. A serious riot broke out here about dusk this evening. Broad stacet, from the Court-House to the Post-Office, was crowded with blacks and whites, all excited, and the blacks much angured at returns unfavorable to the Republicans. Special Correspondence of The Tribune. New YORK, Nov. 5.—By the time this lette reaches you the Presidential election will have been decided, and the country remanded to the control of those who preserved it, or turned over for pillage to those who, for the past quarter of a century, have been seeking to destroy it. However the election may result, whether the Republicans win or lose, it will be of future serv-Republicans win or lose, it will be of ruture service to point out the blunders, mistakes, and suicidal policy of the managers, so far as this State is concerned. If New York gives a Republican majority on Tuesday, it will be in spite of the stupidity of our State Committee, and solely attributable to influence outside of and uncontrolled by that Committee. Until ten days ago almost complete spathy seemed to characterize the conduct of the campaign. There seemed to be no intelligent direction of affairs, but what was done was due to indi-vidual effort. There was no organi-zation seeking to unite and harmonize individsation seeking to unite and harmonize individ-ual effort for the accomplishment of a common object, no attempt to arouse public enthusiasm in behalf of the Republican ticket. Assembly, district, and ward organizations were formed, as is usual, but they managed their affairs inde-pendent of each other, and wholly with a view to influencing local nominations.

THE CONKLING INPLUENCE is wholly chargeable for the apathy of the State Committee. Mr. Conkling was sorely disappointed in not receiving the united support of the New York delegation at Cincinnati, and felt that, had his name been pushed as he thought it should have been, he would have been nominat-ed instead of Gov. Hayes. He was very much incensed at the universal condemnation of machine politics and machine politicians, which was almost universal at that time. He was charged with being the head and front of the "machine" in this State, and it must confessed that some of the office follow in the wake of the machine, do not possess the most savory reputations. A part of the "machine" programme was to make Mr. A. B. Cornell Governor, but was to make Mr. A. B. Cornell Governor, but the people rebelled, and the Convention refused to recognize him. The hue and cry then raised against the "machine" politicians made both Conkling and Cornell very sour, and the immaculate Senator is charged with having then said that he would take no part in the Presidential campaign. This may have been an unfounded report, but it certainly was generally believed that Mr. Conkling had declared, immediately after the State Convention, that the people had raised such a howl about the "machine" he would let them see how they would get along without the "machine." Certain it is that both he and Cornell need the position. The had not the good sense to decline a nomination which was intended as mere compliment, and then ast down on the Committee. Up to the time the State Convention threw him overboard, both he and Senator Conkling were enthusiastic in declaring what they would do for the ticket this fail,—there was to be no limit to their west, we are the present of the control of the control entirely to the influence of Senator Conkling

Bad Management by the State Conkling and Cornell Laying Back "Machine" Managers Willing to Conkling Sulking at His Home

has been scarcely more fortunate in the choice of its Chairman. Mr. Chandler will not be charged with a lack of interest in the success of the Republican ticket, but it is very generally asserted that his management of the campaign has not been characterized by energy or good judgment. He has been exceedingly sensitive regarding his own rather unsavory reputation as a politician, and seemed to care more for punishing any slights offered to him than promoting the weifare of the party. When Carl Schurz made some criticisms of the President and his Cabinet, old Zack got very angry, and there is no doubt, did insist that Mr. Senues should be withdrawn from the cancrast. A prominent Major-Gengral informed me that in conversation with him old Zack cursed and swore terribly about Schurz, and declared he should be punished for abusing the Administration. He didn't care a d—n for the party, he said; what was the party good for if it couldn't punish those who spoke fill of its leading men! Nothing but much flattering finally scothed the indignant Michigander and made him consent to allow Schurz to fulfill his engagements. To Gov. McCornick, Secretary of the Committee, is due whatever of good has come out of it. He has shown a degree of energy and ability in management that entitle him to be remembered in the future. Had be been Chairman there would have been a very different story to tell of its management. The contract of the committee and provided the party to make up. It must necessarily be active and zealous in the interests of one party or the other. In fact, the party demands this of every hewspaper that pretends to support its principles. In return is simply expects to be fairly and courteously treated by the leading men of the party. This has not been done by Chandler's Committee this year. It is impossible to find a newspaper man who speaks of it except in terms of contempt. Gov. McCornick is the only member who seems to have had not expused in a service to find a newspaper man who speaks of the recognition of t

This may have been an unfounded report, but it certainly was generally believed that Mr. Conkling had declared, immediately after the State Convention, that the people had raised such a howl about the "machine" he would let them see how they would get along without the "machine" Certain it is that both he and Cornell was that both have been like a wet blanket on the campaign from the first. Mr. Cornell was chosen Chairman of the State Committee, out of compliment to his candidacy for Governor, and because he had previously held the position. He had not the good sense to decline a nomination which was the State. Among this half-hearted crew are some office-holders who know that their days are numbered when Hayes comes in, for it is be-lieved that he has no sympathy with incompe-

The dramatic profession lost one of its brilliant lights last week in the death of William Wheatley. He was an actor of great merit, a gentleman of culture, and of the first respectability. His mother was an actress, finely educated, and a thorough lady. A daughter, some years ago, ran away and married a man named James Mason. His father was wealthy, having accumulated a large fortune by the rise in real estate. His two daughters were shoddy snobs, who totally ignored the fact that their father was a tailor by trade, who formerly worked on the bench in this city. When their brother eloped with Miss Wheatley, their aristocratic noses turned up, and they felt bound to resent the "diagrace" inflicted upon their family by his eloping with the daughter of an actress. They accordingly called upon Mrs. Wheatley, who received them with the grace and stateliness of a Queen. The female shobs proceeded to state that they were shocked at the imprudence of their brother; of course they could only fity him for marrying the daughter of an actress, but they could never recognize his wife; it was unfortunate, of course, but could not some way be devised for procuring a separation, and restoring their brother to them. Mrs. Wheatley listened to them patiently, and then, rising with dignity from her chair, replied that she had just written to her daughter that she must never expect to enter her house again after having diagraced herself by marrying the son of a tallor. With which crushing remark she salled majestically out of the roun, leaving the young snobs struggling between shame and natural impudence.

A Brave Little Girl. Recently a tramp called at the residence of an old lady named Askew, near Covington, and, finding that the woman and ber grandchild—a girl of about 19 years of age—were the only occupants, ordered them to give him some food. The old lady set before him the best she had prepared in the house, but he refused to eat it, and ordered some ham and eggs fried. The little granddaughter ran into an adjoining room, and procuring a shot-gun, she presented it at the fellow and told him that if he didn't get out at once she would blow his head off! The fellow saw at a glance that the child meant business, and wasn't to be fooled with and he ran out of the house and made his way to the road as fast as his legs could carry him. The little girl followed him with her shot-gun until he was off the premises, when she marched back and put up her gun. THE COURTS.

Judge Williams Denies the Injunction Asked for in the Normal School Matter.

Some Heavy Suits Entered in the United States Circuit Court.

A Final Dividend Ordered in the Matter of the Home Insurance Company.

Judge Williams yesterday morning decided the motion for an injunction in the case of George D. Plant vs. the Board of County Commissioners and the teachers of the Normal School. The bill was filed by George D. Plant, J. J. Kearvey, F. J. O'Connell, and S. S. Gardner against the County Commissioners and D. S. Wentworth, J. W. Larrimore, A. W. Brayton, and Misses Emily J. Rice, Sarah M. Curtis, and Sarah Byrne, to restrain the Board from appointing any teachers for the Normal School. As is well known the Board of Education could not agree on a Principal for the Normal School, Sarah Byrne, to restrain the Board from appointing any teachers for the Normal School. As is well known the Board of Education could not agree on a Principal for the Normal School, and so the school has not been opened for about two months. Finally the County Commissioners interfered of their own motion, and appointed a Principal and teachers until the Board of Education should act. Thereupon Plant and the three other members of his faction filed a bill to prevent the opening of the school.

Ou the first application for a restraining order Judge Williams declined to allow it, and yesterday, after setting out at length the facts in the case, the Judge said that the County Board had no power to hire teachers for the Normal School or fix their salaries, but that where, as in the present case, it was done merely in case of emergency, he did not think a court of equity ought to interfere. That the Board of Commissioners of Cook County had no greater authority than County Commissioners of other counties.

The Judge also decided that he would not allow the injunction, as the damage to the complainants was nothing, compared with what the public would suffer should the school be closed. It ought to be opened, and taxes had been levied for payment of its expenses. The complainants also did not come into court with clean hands, as they could, being members of the Board of Education, have done more to smooth away the difficulty, and bring out harmony between the two factions. It was a case where the Chancellor was justified in using his discretion, and the motion for injunction would, therefore, be overruled.

At NORMAL.

The news that the injunction had been refused was received at the school at moon yesterday and caused general rejoicing among the teachers and pupils. The school, which reopened a week ago last Monday, is now fully under way, with some 150 students present, of which number eighty-five are in the Normal department, the others in the preparatory and training departments. This is a much less number than last large increase in attendance is expected now that it is definitely decided that the school will continue.

TROUBLE OF A WARHHOUSEMAN.

William H. Ferry filed a bill yesterday in the Circuit Court against John Bates asking for an injunction. Compilationant states that he is the owner of the building Nos. 688 and 685 State street, which has been for years used for a place to store household goods and as a warehouse. For the last four years his foreman or manager has been the defendant, who has had charge of the building, receiving the amount paid for storage, under the general superintendence of complainant's son, W. H. Ferry, Jr. A short time ago complainant, becoming disastisfied with Bates, removed him and appointed one William V. Barr in his place. Last Sunday, however, Bates foreibly ejected Barr from the building, regained possession, and now holds it in defiance of every one. Complairant therefore asks for an injunction against Bates, to prevent him from collecting any money for storage, from meddling with the goods stored, or from keening possession of the building, alleging that he has embezzied large sums, has been unfaithful to his trust, and proved himself unqualified for the position.

BANKRUPTCY MATTERS.

A discharge was issued to Whiliam C. Lombard.

In the case of Richard Morton, a rule was issued on L. B. Lewis and Richard Morton to show cause in ten days after service why the firm of Richard Morton & Co. should not be adjudicated bankrupt. An order was also issued postponing the composition meeting thirty days.

A dividend of S per cent was declared in the matter of Peter Barlelme et al.

Meetings for the election of Assignees will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in the cases of Charles Sharnhost and J. W. Goodhue.

A composition meeting will be held at the same hour in the matter of J. W. Goodhue.

An order was entered in the case of the Home Insurance Company directing the Assignee, Thomas Buckley, to sell at public auction all the remaining assets of the Company, after giving three weeks' notice in the newspapers and ten days' notice by mail to the creditors, The sale, however, shall first be reported to court before being consummated. These assets consist chiefly of judgments and notes against divers parties, and are not of much value. With the amount to be realized from the sale and the cash on hand, the Assignee will in the course of a month declare a dividend of perhaps 3 or 5 per cent.

Special Correspondence of The Tribule.
Das Moines, Is., Nov. 7.—Yesterday was the beginning of a new fiscal year in Iowa, and, con-beginning of a new fiscal year in Iowa, and, con-sequently, general settlement day. Below is the balance-sheet of the State Treasurer, as audited by the State Auditor. It will be seen that the State has paid out, more than it has received, $4,809. This has been caused by the extraordi-nary appropriations made by the last Legislature, which provided no adequate means to meet them. The tax-levy was fixed at the same rate as for the two years previous, while the expendthem. The tay revious, while the expend-tures were increased immensely. This refers alone to the General Revenue Fund. may be a deficit; so that, while it may appear that the State has overpaid for current expenses, it does not prove that the State is out of funes:

HOMESTAD-RIGHTS.

The Supreme Court has decided that, when decedent dies, leaving no estate but a homestead, under Sec. 2,440 of the Code of 1873 the surviving wife or husband has the right to one-third in value of the homestead, in fee, and under Sec. 2,007 the right merely to use and occupy the whole homestead until otherwise disposed of. But these rights cannot be both enjoyed at the same time in the same property. The survivor must elect which he will enjoy. He cannot have both.

Mr. Edna B. Smith brought an action against several saloon-keepers at Webster City for damages in selling whisky to her husband, whereby he deprived his family of the necessaries of life. Juligment was rendered in the District Court for $500 against Harmon Wile and wife, and the judgment was made a lien on the premises where the liquor was sold. Wile lived over his saloon, and claimed the premises, as a homestead, and that, as such, it was exempt from execution. The Court held that, under the statute for violation of the Liquor law, homesteads were not exempt. The case will go up to the Supreme Court on that point, which is a very important one.

A Child Bishop.

Salt Laks Herald.

As Bishop Tuttle, of Montana, was making his annual visitations last July, a ranehman and his wife brought their family to be baptized. Among them was a fine baby boy of 6 months. When the Bishop asked the names of the children, the mother gave as the baby's name, "Bishop Tuttle." The Bishop mildly suggested that his first name was Daniel, but the mother could not be driven from her resolution, and the baby was accordingly baptized Bishop Tuttle Curtis.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1876.

the London papers upon the election in the United States, based on the supposition of Tuesday success, which, it is agreed, will not injure American credit abroad. From present appearances it will not.

The loss of the Electoral vote of New Jersey is not without its mitigating circumstances. In the Legislature, which is to elect a United States Senator, the Republicans have a majority of one upon joint ballot. This is a valuable salvage out of the wreck.

ale who have been so foolish or so ricked as to make bets on the election hould be firm in refusing to "pass in their hips" yet awhile on the supposition that Thous is elected. Let there be no enriching of the enemy's exchequer prematurely.

Yesterday the returns indicated that Mr. Ls Mornz had been elected in the Third gressional District over Mr. BRENTANO; fuller and complete returns show that BRENTANO has been elected by a small rity. This makes the Republican gain of Congressmen in this city two, and in the State probably four; leaving the next deleation, Republicans ten, Democrats nine, stead of Republicans six, and Democrats irteen, as in the present House.

The Peoria District is lost. Born is beater or Congress by a few hundred votes. This ork of Mr. RICHARD H. WHITING, who in revenge for his failure to be nominal ed turned in and supported the Democrati candidate and hurt the Republican nomines ased Peoria to give so great a majority or the Democratic candidate that Knox and tark could not overcome it and the regular mocratic majority in Fulton. It is to be ped that Whitino feels better, now that he as got in his work and sacrificed a Republican seat in Congress.

It is an evidence of Gov. HAYES' emi judgment and common sense that he severe-ly commented upon the course of certain individuals sending in to Columbus and giving out to the country dispatches of a doubtful origin announcing Republican victories in dubious States, thereby raising false hopes and encouraging people to bet and lose their money. The Governor's course throughout the election has been sensible and dignified, and he is especially to be credited for his courage and candor in setting his foot at once upon improbable dispatches, evidently sent out for a purpose. sent out for a purpose.

Now that election-day has passed and the torches are laid away for another four years of rest, the people of Chicago should not forget that Brother Moopy's campaign is not yet over. The Tabernacle now should be a favorite resort. Within its sacred walls the jubilant may restrain their joys and the disappointed console themselves with reflections appointed console themselves with reflections upon the life to come. All may learn something of value to themselves on the great Hereafter, when Presidential elections will appear trifling, and that Brother Moopy's plan is the only way to make it. n is the only way to make "your calling

For the first time in the history of the Turkish Empire, a Parliament will assemble in the first week of December, and a provis-ional decree has been issued for the election of its members. It is to be called a General Council, and consist of two Chambers. The first Chamber, or Chamber of Deputies, will consist of 120 members, one-third to go out every year, so that the Chamber will be renewed every three years. The second, or Chamber of Magnates, will contain not fewer than thirty nor more than fifty members, and this House will have the power of revision over the acts of the Lower Chamber. The mbers of the Chambers are to have their censes paid while on duty, also their travexpenses paid while on duty, also their traveling expenses, and a salary of $125 a month. As soon as two-thirds of the members reach Constantinople, the Government will declare the Parliament open. The experiment of this rather novel Congress will be watched with considerable interest.

The Chicago produce markets were generally slow and steady yesterday. Mess pork closed at $15.42$@15.45 seller the year and $15.52\@15.55 for January. Lard closed steady, at $9.45@9.47\ seller the year and 9,52 seller January. Meats were unnged, at 6je for new shoulders, boxed, for do short-ribs, and 8je for do shortears. Lake freights were quiet, at 3164c Buffalo. Highwines were steady, at $1.08 to Buffalo. Highwines were steady, at $1.08 per gallon. Flour was dull and steady. Wheat closed to lower, at $1.08 for November and $1.10 for December. Corn closed a shade firmer, at 42 fc for November and 42 fc for December. Oats closed to higher, at 31 fc for November and 32 fc for December. By was 2c lower, at 56c.

The result of the election in Cook County into supporting Thom, and to some extension wholesale change of front benefit Steward, the Greenback-Democratic nor whole, the Republicans can claim a hand-some victory in the county. Curron, for Governor, gets about 200 majority, and the Republicans also elect MRLs State's-Attorney, Brockway Recorder, Derresich Coroner, Gross Clerk of the Circuit Court, Ald-RICH and BRENTANO Congressmen in the First and Third Districts, two out of three State Senators, and twelve out of twentyone members of the Legislature. The Democrats elect their Sheriff, one Congressman, one State Senator, nine members of the Legislature, and four County Commissioners.

If the Democrats are pinning their faith to North Carolina, they would do well to "change their holt," for of all the uncertain States North Carolina is the most doubtful. To begin with, no reliable returns whatever have been received from the State, and as far as "claims" go the Republicans have a little the best of it up to data. It will be remembered that in 1872 the Liberals claimed North Carolina by 10,000 majority with as much certainty as the Democrats claimed it last Tuesday night. The next day the majority had fallen to 7,000, the next day it was "a large majority," and a day or two later the truth was known and North Carolina had gone Republican. This year there is good reason to expect a similar result, for the negroes were thoroughly aroused and organized in opposition to the proposed Constitutional Amendments threatening their rights and liberties, while a large body of white Republicans and Old-Line Whigs in the northwestern part of the State were known to be firmly consolidate for the Republican Electoral ticket. There-fore, we say, the Democratic claim of North Carolina is at best nothing but brag and guess-work. It may be several days before

Hundreds of Republicans, especially among the Germans, cut off the Tuders and Hendricks Electors from the Democratic ticket and pasted them over the Hayss and Wheeler Electors, and this accounts for the large difference between the vote given for the Republican State and county ticket and for the Republican Electoral ticket. It will be seen that Cullom and Shuman received some 2,500 more votes than Haves and WHEELER. The remainder of the State ticket ran equally ahead of the Presidential and the county ticket, except that CLOUGE, for Sheriff, got more votes than the State candidates. But this substitution of 2,500 Theren Electors for Haves Electors by Republicans measured less than half the total defection. More than 2,500 Republicans voted the whole Democratic ticket for the sake of a "change of Administration." A part of these voted for one or two of the Republican local candidates, such as for ALDRICH against HOXIE, or for BROCKWAY against Comiskey, or for Mills against Jameson; but the greater part went the "whole hog," from snout to tail, includ-ing the bristles, so keen were they for "a change." There was no resisting this tendency, and all that can be done about it is to wait until those changelings become disap-pointed by the failure of the Democrats to reform things, when they will change back.

THE VERY LATEST. ent yesterday is fully sustained by all our advices. The situation up to this hour, as developed by what we have every reason to regard as trustworthy information, may be marized as follows : California and Wisconsin are positively mown to have been carried for HAYES. There is very little room to doubt that Oregon and Nevada are Republican.

Louisiana and Florida are claimed with far greater positiveness by the Republicans than by the Democrats.

South Carolina is claimed with equal per-sistency for both CHAMBERLAIN and HAMPron, and, whatever the result as between he two candidates for Governor, the weight of probability is decidedly in favor of the Electoral vote for HAYES. North Carolina is entirely uncertain, the absence of any figures whatever, and is claimed by both parties. The Demoeratic presumption that the State has been carried for TILDEN is certainly not upported by any facts to that effect, and is for the present unworthy of confidence Our estimate of the chances is that the Republican claim of North Carolina is the more easonable of the two. It will take several days to hear officially from the election dis-tricts that are without railway or telegraphic connection with the State Capital, and until definite returns are received North Carolina must remain "doubtful."

At half-past 5 yesterday morning, when the second edition of THE TRIBUNE was issued, all the reports indicated that Thiben was morally certain of receiving 184 Electoral votes,-but one less than the number required for election,—and the States not definitely heard from were as follows:

These States seemed, all so far as heard from, likely to go Republican—or rather the chances still seemed in that direction, while there was nothing to indicate, with any assurance, that the Democrats had carried any of the seven. The dispatches were conflicting, but those from the three Pacific States ing, but those from the three Pacific States were on the whole hopeful. It was claimed that South Carolina had given 10,000 majority for Harm, and that Lousiana might be relied upon from 5,000 to 10,000 Republican majority. Wisconsin was not considered hopeless, though conceded to be desperately close. But there was far from being any assurances that the entire seven States had been carried for Harm. The dispatches in our 8 o'clock a.m. edition did not tend to clear up the situation, and the uncertainty sent a quiver of suspense throughout the entire city, which hourly grew more intense, and which, from the multitude of dispatches addressed to TRE TRIBURE inquiring as to the result, it was plain was shared throughout the entire Northwest.

During the day dispatches from the doubtful States were received every few minutes. These alternated with an exasperating iteration that wrought up the excitement to the highest pitch. A dispatch that raised Rewere on the whole hopeful. It was claimed when posted on THE TRIBUNE bulletin elicited deafening cheers from the throng that gathered round our office to hear the news, would be followed by another that sent them down to the very depths of des-STEWARD, the Greenback-Democratic nominee for Governor; but on the local tickets they discriminated closely as to the merits and qualifications of the various candidates, and in the main their choice fell upon the best man. On the whole, the Republicans can claim a handsome victory in the county. Cullon, for local the bulleting down.

wild as to seriously impede travel and business, and the Tur Tribure proprietors or dered the bulletins down.

But hope began to revive when, later in the day, there came no dispatches to indicate that Tulden had carried a single one of the seven doubtful States, unless possibly Wisconsin. As to that, as often as he could be heard from, the Chairman of the Republican State Committee, Kerrs, dispatched that the State was Republican, though he gave no figures; and Borks, editor of the Milwankes Sentinel, telegraphed, from time to time, that he "thought" Hayes had carried Wisconsin. For the rest, no news that could be accepted as approaching to authenticity was received, though wild reports of Democratic victory, were given out as having been received by some mysterious underground communication at Democratic headquarters.

But in the evening dispatches were received indicating that Wisconsin had been carried for Hayes by about 3,000 majority. On the heels of that came the intelligence that the Republicans had triumplied in Florida, making sure of her four Electoral votes for Hayes; that there was nearly equal assurance of victory in Louisians; that the assurance of victory in Louisiana; that the prospect in South Carolina was still better, and that the three Pacific States had gone for

Up to this writing we have received no news to the contrary,—nothing to dash the hopes that during the afternoon and even-ing hourly grew stronger, until now, with the encouraging reports received, they appear strong enough to the to and to claim bets upon. Certainly, up to this hour, the reports are such that no man who has staked on Harrs would be justified in giving up the

All things now look like victory-but a victory that has its perils. It will depend upon the life of a single Harrs Elector. The men who did not scruple at rebellion, who have not scrupled at White-Line massacres, may not hesitate at assassination in order to compass the seizure of the Government. But if they do not know it, we can tell them that the people would never submit to usur-

EFFECT OF HARD TIMES ON THE ELECTION. The result of the election on Tuesday last is due in no inconsiderable degree to consequences for which the Republican party was in no wise responsible. One great factor in the Republican defeat was the panic of 1873 and the cry of "hard times," and in 1876 it had an effect such as the same cry had in 1860 and in 1840. In 1836 MARTIN VAN BUREN, who had been long an admired leader in the Democratic party, and who had been selected as his successor by Andrew Jackson, then in the pride and glory of his national renown, was elected President of the United States by an overwhelming majority of the Electoral vote. He was elected in a season of great national prosperity, when the country was full of money, easy to be borrowed, and when the prices of all things salable were buoyant. The country was traversed in all sections with men carrying money to invest it in lands, to found cities, and build up vast enterprises. Building lots in Cairo and To-ledo sold at prices which they hardly command now, and hundreds of new paper towns and cities were planted from the Lakes to At half-past 1 o'clock this morning the improved prospect which began to be apand explication over the "prosperity" which attended the vast expansion of credit and currency, and the wild manis which they produced. In March, 1837, the Democratic party, with its new President, entered upor what promised to be a popular and successful Administration; but a few months thereful Administration; but a few months thereafter there was a great explosion; the great majority of the banks not only suspended payment, but passed into bankruptcy. Speculation and credit collapsed; property became unsalable; the prosperity vanished in n night, and the country was plunged into general ruin and desolation. The Demoratic Administration really was not responble for this collapse. Nevertheless, during the succeeding years through which the business of the country was suffering from the udden contraction of the currency, loss of credit, and from the suspension of specie payments, there was a general outcry against the "hard times" which had overtaken and prostrated every man who was in debt. As ear after year followed with hardly a perceptible improvement, the popular mind was led to believe that something might be ac-complished by "a change" in the party managing the Government. The Democratic party entered into the campaign of 1840 in full confidence, but under the cry of "hard times," and the demand for a "change," and against the personal appeals of Gen. Jackson himself, the Democratic party was huried from power by nearly an unanimous vote of the Electoral College. Never had there been a more sweeping political change. Twenty years later, after the Democratic party had enjoyed a restoration to power of sixteen years, the Democratic party had elected a President and a majority of Congress. A few months after the beginning of Buchanan's Administration there came another financial collapse of a long season of that prosperity which attends a wild expanthat prosperity which attends a wild expansion of currency-credit and speculation. In a day this prosperity was changed into bank-ruptcy, and men rich in speculative values were overwhelmed with debt. The recovery was slow and protracted. The unfortunate waited in vain for improvement. Hard times oppressed the land, and, though the Slavery question divided the Democratic party and agitated the country, there was a loud demand from multitudes in debt of country. agisted the country, there was a loud demand from multitudes in debt or out of work, who would never have taken the risks of war, for "a change"; such a change as would give financial relief, and put the suspended industry of the country at work again. Pennsylvania and Ohio wanted a change and an encouraging tariff on iron; New England, New Jersey, and New York wanted a change in behalf of their suffering mills and to benefit their labor. The Democratic division aided this view, and thousands who cared little or nothing for or against Slavery voted to remedy hard times by a "change" of parties, and by giving power to the new party which was vigorous and progressive.

In the recurring events of time, the next financial revulsion should not have come until 1877, but the extraordinary events of the War, the rapid accumulation of private wealth, an inflated and depreciated paper surrency, an inordinate expansion of credits, ourrency, an inflated and depreciated paper ourrency, an inordinate expansion of credits, a fictitious legal standard of value, the mag-nitude of the public debt, the unexampled issue of all forms of municipal and corporate tional availability, and by a policy of leniency toward the convicted swindlers whom the reformers had run down and brought to bay. while the Democratic platform reverberated with "Reform" and made it familiar as household words, the Republican platform was comparatively allent, and such words as it spoke received but little confirmation through the acts of the present Administration. second term when the collapse of credit tool place. Fancied wealth to the extent of nun-dreds of millions vanished from sight. The hand of industrial labor was paralyzed. Hun-dreds of thousands of families were brought to want and misery by discharge from employment. The mills, workshops, and furnaces were closed. Enforced tion, for which the party was held respon-sible for the future as well as the past and idleness succeeded compensated labor, and pinching want took the place of comparative comfort. "Hard times" was again upon the country in an aggravated form. Starva-These are the chief circu the country in an aggravated form. Starvation extorted from multitudes the demand for change,—a change of men, of administrations, and of policy. Despite the personal and political unpopularity of Tilden, despite the shameful and disloyal record of the Democratic party and the dangerous schemes of its leaders, this cry of "a change" in the party administering the Government, as a relief and a remedy for hard times, has been carrying in all parts of the country. Tinform gaining in all parts of the country. Unfor-tunstely, the personal conduct of many of the adherents and attaches of the Adminis-tration has been such as to greatly strengthen and intensify a demand for a change, and the two motives or inspirations for putting the Government into the hands of another party have in 1876, as in 1840 and 1860, conouted largely to the defeat of the Repub ican party. In each instance the panic has fallen upon a new Administration, and in each instance has been followed by a change of the party in power. We do not mean to be understood as claiming that the seeming defeat of the Republican party was inevitable, or that it might not have been averted; but we do insist that with a knowledge that hard times was oppressively bearing upon the whole industrial opulation, and that a demand for a change of party controlling the Government was a natural result of that oppression, the means by which this desire for a change might have been counteracted were never em-ployed, and were wholly discarded by those in authority in the management and direction of the campaign.

THE WEAKNESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

The wonder is that the Republicans have one so well. The large Electoral vote and the relatively larger popular vote that have been given HAYES and WHEELER demonstrate the fondness of the people of this country for the national party that has directed its affairs for sixteen years, and the strong dis-inclination to abandon it even for a time and for the purpose of chastening its leaders.
The weakness of the Republican campaign has been that it was necessarily and unavoidably defensive and apologetic. There had been abuses, though perhaps not greater than would have grown out of any other long tenure of office succeeding the demorali-zation of war; but the weight of these alone would not have dragged down the party if the people could have been im-pressed with the belief that the errors would be corrected by the new Administration. There is no longer anything to be gained by disguising the fact that neither the Republican candidate nor the Republican platform furnished a satisfactory guarantee of radical reform to the great mass of the people. Whatever the intentions were, and we believe they were honest, and whatever the outcome would have been, and we believe it would have been all that has been promised, it is certain that the candi-date and the platform, under the influence of certain associations regarded with sus-picion and distrust, had not the force to compel popular conviction in the new de-parture promised. It was this lack of condread of the revulsion against what has been called "Grantism," that chiefly supplemented the desire for a change suggested by hard times.
First as to the candidate: Gov. HAYES all that has been claimed for him by the Republican press,-an honest man, a succ ful man, a brave General, devoted as a civil ian to the best principles of Government and personally a fair exemplar of the high-est aims and best intentions of the Republican party. But he was bound down (1) by the circumstances of his nomination, and

(2) by the lack of opportunity for convincing the people that he had the moral courage and mental force for the combat with the "machine" politicians which was sure to be put upon him. It was evident from the outset that the campaign must be made not merely upon the pretense but upon the earnest and sincere purpose of reform. There was one man—Benjamin H. Brisrow who stood out as the conspicuous and tried defender of reform, and as a bold, aggressive, and strategic assailer of the rings. He was no respecter of persons and his name would have been synonym for reform, universally recog-nized at the bare mention. He was the chosen candidate of all that portion of the Convention which was outspol against the Whisky Ring, against Belkn ism, against Boss-Shepherdism, against Con gressional partition of offices, against corrup gressional partition of offices, against corrution, and the office-broking and spoils-syste generally. His chief contestants, with the exception of HAYES, were in one way or another identified with the machine, or at the best gave no hope of the new departure demanded by the people. None of them would give way to Bristow, and hence the final combination on Gov. Haves was made with the aid of certain factions that had no sympathy with the radical ideas of reform represented by Bristow. This circumstance left a strong impression upon the people, and the Democrats have not failed to make the most of it. Gov. Haves has not had the the most of it. Gov. HAYES has not had the opportunity to convince the country that he would be all to it that the people knew Baismow would be. He had no means of direct communication with the people except through his letter of acceptance, which was straightforward and manly. His record has been made the Republican campaign defensive.

It was simply impossible to escape the fatal necessity of apologizing, explaining, and promising to mend. While the enemy was constantly making sallies and attacks, acquiring new territory, gaining new allies, enticing deserters, and drumming in the doubters, the leaders of the Republican party doubters, the leaders of the Republican party were too busy in watching their own camp to admit of seeking recruits or breaking the ranks of their opponents; and it is only the devotion of the people to the broad national principles which form the basis of the Republican party that has enabled it to hold so many of its adherents. The lesson is a severe one; we hope it may not prove a disastrons one for the country.

A great meeting was recently held at Athens, presided over by the Rector of the University and attended by the ablest mem-bers of the Professorial body, as well as bers of the Professorial body, as well as members of the various organizations in that city, at which a public statement was made of the grievances of the Greeks at the hands of the Turks. It appears that they are even worse governed than the Bosnians or Bulgarians. Since the insurrection broke out they have been fleeced and oppressed with tenfold rapacity by the efforts of the Turkish tax catherers to make good the losses incurred tax-gatherers to make good the losses incurred in the revolutionary districts. It was stated that all the old forms and outrages have not only been continued, but have actually been increased, and that the Musselmen have been more intolerant and fanatical than ever. A reign of terror exists all over the provinces of Epirus, Thessaly, and Macedonia. In point of fact, the Turko-Greek provinces are in a more miserable condition than any of the Sclavic provinces, and this notwith standing that they have taken no part in the insurrection. They have furnished no troops to aid Servia. The Government has promptly discountenanced any manifestation of hostility to Turkish rule. The Servians called upon them to make common cause with the Sclaves, but called in vain. They even maintained neutrality while their Christian brethren in Bulgaria were tortured and massacred by the Turkish butchers.

What have the Greeks gained by their neu-trality? Absolutely nothing. On the other hand, their condition has been aggravated. They have been condemned to bear the whole burden of Turkish misrule and tyranwhole burden of Turkish misrue and tyran-ny which was temporarily lifted from the Sclavic provinces by the emergency of war. The tax-gatherers, unable to collect any trib-ute in the latter, have swept down upon the Greek provinces like locusts, to make good the deficit. Worse than this, after all their good conduct and patience, and submission to outrages, they are utterly disregarded by European opinion, and left out of all consid-eration in the propositions for peace sub-mitted by the various Powers. Provision has been made, or will be made, for Bosnia, Herzegoviaa, Montenegro, and Bulgaria, but none for Greece. The Sclavic provinces are to be guaranteed in their political independence and religious rights, notwithstand-ing they have been in insurrection, while Greece, which has maintained a strict neu-elect himself, was to secure the election of trality, is to be left to the mercy of the FARNSWORTH and the defeat of LATHROP; Turkish tax-gatherer and the Mussulman fanatic. The Greeks are not even recognize fanatic. The Greeks are not even recognized in any of the negotiations. Their name has not been mentioned; on the other hand, it apparently has been assumed from their quiet that they were on good terms with the Turks, and had nothing to complain of,
The meeting of which we have spoken took very decided action, but it is an open question whether that action has not come too late to be of any service in releasing them from Turkish tyranny or securing them any part of the fruits of peace which the Sclaves will have obtained by violent means. Two resolutions were passed amid great enthusiasm. The first resolution directs the Hellenic Government to protest against the contemplated abandon-ment of the Hellenic populations of Turkey evidenced in the various propositions of the Great Powers. The second assures the Government of the universal desire of the Hellenic nation that the land and sea forces should be placed in the best possible state for active service. The first of these resolutions is practically inoperative. The sec-ond can only be of consequence in case Turkey shall refuse the peace propositions at the end of the six weeks' armistice, in which case Greece will prove to be the fast ally of Russia, and correct the mistake it has thus far made by rising in insurrection and secur-ing its reforms, as the Sclavic provinces have

The New York Herald is responsible for certain statements which, if true, will reflect seriously on this country and considerably diminish the good feeling brought about in Europe by the success of our Centennial Ex-hibition. It is said that goods brought from foreign countries for exhibition will be sub-jected to import duty when they are re-exported, if the original packages have been broken; that allowance is not made for the depreciation of the goods by a long exhibi-tion in fixing the duty when they are finally sold, though this was promised; that where there has been a failure in the Consular certificate to note the difference of a depreciated paper currency in which the value was fixed, paper currency in which the value was fixed, the duty is charged on the full valuation as if it had been made in gold; and, finally, that foreign exhibitors are subjected to much needless restraint and annoyance, and get no satisfaction when they bring their grievances to the Secretary of the Treasury. These statements are said to be based upon actual comp'aints. It will be a great pity and a scandal to mar the success of the Centennial collaboration by any netty or formal tennial celebration by any petty or formal annoyances to foreign exhibitors; and, if the complaints are well-founded, they ought to be remedied without delay. It is desirable that the reports of our exhibition abroad shall be as favorable as the impression it has

shall be as favorable as the impression it has made on our own people, and the Government should do all in its power to promote this result.

On the supposition that Gov. There is probably elected President by the appointment of a majority of Electors to vote for him, we are anxious to know just when the good times are to begin which the Democrate have promised as freely.

dark as to whether this means thirty days from the time of the popular vote, or thirty days after the Electors shall have voted, or thirty days from the actual inauguration. It may make a considerable difference with a large class of sanguine people who are looking forward to the "change" which they have demanded so vociferously during the campaign. In the one case we may expect the good times about Dec. 7, in the second about Jan. 7, and in the third not till April 4, next. If the "change" has actually been made, we hope it will become in the second about Jan. 7, not till April 4, next. If the "change" has actually been made, we hope it will become notably and appreciably operative as soon as possible. Things have been brightening up considerably within the last few months when the prospects of the political change was doubtful, to say the least; so we see no reason why the magic of Gov. Tradan's election, which was the sort of thing promised by his supporters, should not begin to show itself at the earliest date. In this matter, however they may differ about other things, the Republicans and Democrats will join in the keenest anticipation and also in the most grateful acknowledgment—when it comes.

grateful acknowledgment—when it comes.

The managers of the local Republican Committee could not have perpetrated a piece of more stupendous stupidity than they did in neglecting to make it their business to have enough polling-places established in the city, as could easily have been done, for Tuesday's election. The 4,000 voters of the First Ward ought not to have been left with but four polling-places. In view of delays incident to the holding of the election under the Registration law, there was no less stroctious blundering in leaving the Third Ward, with its 3,500 votes, the Fourth, with 4,500 votes, and the Second, with 4,000 votes, with each but four polling-places. In these wards voters went to the polling-places to find that in order to deposit their votes they must fall into line with from 200 to 300 men ahead of them, and in a raw, chilly atmosphere wait for hours; and, rather than do it, hundreds of voters turned away. This occurred in Republican wards, for which the do it, hundreds of voters turned away. This occurred in Republican wards, for which the rule seems to have been to limit them to four polling-places. It was very different in the Democratic wards. There no votes for Thioday were lost because of lack of sufficient number of polling-places. The Fifth (Bridgeport) Ward, with but 4,000 votes, had six polling-places, as did also the Sixth Ward, in which there is a less number of voters. The Seventh Ward, with less votes than the Fifth, had eight polling-places, and the Eighth had ten. Nobody was crowded away from the polls in these Democratic wards. But in the Twelfth Ward, which has as many votes as either of these, and is sure when the vote is polled for a these, and is sure when the vote is polled for a big Republican majority, there were but four polling-places, and several hundred Repub-lican votes were inconsequence lost. The like occurred in the Eleventh Ward, where but five polling-places were allotted about 5,000 voters. The loss of Republican votes on this account was sufficient in the city to have materially modified the result; and no small share of the local defeat must be charged to the performance of the local Cor running the campaign for weeks to make sure of bringing out the full Republican vote, but neglecting to see to it that when the voters did come out they could have fair opportunity to get in their votes. Among the press of grievous disasters which Among the press of grievous disasters which have overtaken the Republicans, there is here and there a little bit of consolation. One such item of satisfaction is the complete defeat and squelching of STEVE HURLBUR, who ran for Congress as a bolter in the Fourth District. It was pure cussedness which caused him to persist in being a candidate, when his party told him to step aside this term. The object he sought and labored for, in case he could not re-elect himself, was to secure the election of but he has miserably failed in all his purposes.

The vote he received is only "scattering."
FARNSWORTH is badly beaten, and LATHROP is not only elected, but at this writing is not only elected, but at this writing has more votes than all of his competitors put together. In some of his speeches, HURLBUT ridiculed civil-service reform as "mere moonshine, the babbling of fools, who knew not what they spoke"; and then disclosed, with a modesty that was quite overcoming, that he had been instrumental in abolishing the Civil-Service Commission, etc. The vote of the records of the that was quite overcoming, that he had been in-strumental in abolishing the Civil-Service Com-mission, etc. The vote of the people of the Fourth District shows in what estimation they hold this machine politician, who ridicules and scoffs at the civil-service reform. They have elected a gentleman to Congress who regards the matter in quite a different light. The con-stituents of Hurland have set down on him. stituents of HURLBUT have sat down on him, as they have no longer use for his style of politics.

ter of the Gospel by John.
THE ADDRESS. ent chapters of John's Gospel as the Bread of Life, the Water of Life, the Light of the World, raised dead people to life. That is true, but they did it very differently from Christ. In the seventeenth chapter of the First Book of Kings, Elijah raises the son of a widow to life, but just hear what it says: "And he cried unto the Lord and said, O, hord, my God, I pray Thee let this child's soul come into him again." There is also an account of Elisha enough to get up and come out of the grave in spite of the grave-clothes that bound him hand and foot."

Now I wan't you to notice that there were three things his friends had to do. "Where have ye laud him!" said Christ. He knew where he ye laud him!" said Christ. He knew where he was well enough, but it was something which they might do to show him the grave of their brother. When they get to the grave He says to them, "Take ye away the stone." He might have done it Himself. He could have thrown the stone a thousand miles away with a single word, but this was something which they could do for themselves. Then, after He has raised him, He tells them to "loose him, and let him go." It seems to me that is what a good many of these Caristians want right here in Chicago. They have been resurrected; they are out of their graves; the new life is in them, but they are still bound hand and foot with the grave-clothes of their old nature. They can't speak for Christ, who has raised from the dead, may no longer go about in their grave-clothes; get them off and then you will be of some use to the Master. Who has raised you.

And what encouragement there is for us, my friends, in this chapter! If Christ could raise the dead brother of Martha and Mary, can He not raise the dead souls of our friends for whom we pray!

And now we come to the sad thought that in "spite of this great miracle, which was wrought within two miles of Jerusalem, the Chier Priests and the Pharisees, when they heard of it, called a council to see how they might put Him to death. O what enmity they haven't done her and up to the Jerusalem doch has been down to Memph doctors there. They have they haven't done her worm and the ways the sick was chiral that in "spite of this great miracle, which was wrought within two miles of Jerusalem, the heard of it, called a council to see how they might put Him to death. O what enough the haven't done her have made her worm and the plant of the prince is in the sinner's heart against the Lord Jesus of Jesus of Naza leaves them piotting together to kill the Prince of Life.

Mr. Sankey then sang as a solo, "We shall sleep, but not forever," prefacing it by reference to a letter he had received from a mother, whose child had been converted at one of their meetings in the East, and had lately died, sweetly trusting in the Savior.

Brief remarks were then made by several brethren, after which Dr. Mitchell gave a most forcible and impressive statement of the doctrine of a supernatural Christ and a supernatural religion. He said it is my joy, and comfort, and strength, under the burdens and sins which I carry, that I have a supernatural Savior, and one who call the dead to life. We may as well dismiss this whole matter of religion, unless we believe that Christ can do supernatural things for us; things which are neither reasonable nor possible on any natural grounds.

whole matter of religion, unless we believe that Christ can do supernatural things for us, things and the could not be a many of the could have converted my soul, and in the midst of a world full of the powers of darkness He could not keep me unto salvation. My only hope is in the Divine Christ. If He cannot do all things, I am lost. We believe in Him. Who is the Resurrection and the Life. The angels on Olivet testified to the same thing when they "This same Jesus whom ye have seen go into these results of the same thang when they for hopeless cases. Lay everything on Him; He can do everything, for He is drvine; He can cortadict all the reasoning of our thought and all the probabilities of our experience. Some people are willing to admit that Christ is able to do supernatural word in our periods and the probabilities of our experience. Some will assistance from Him. But the truth is, we have a supernatural Savior as long as we live, who is able to do everything for us all the time. There is a whole next of besetting sins us. We are like powder-magnisines with sparks all around us: we walk through this world every hour in jeopardy from the powers around as and the powers below. We cannot keep ourselves for a single though a world the cortain to perish. And this He has promised to do. Let us, then, expect supernatural things for ourselves and our friends on wasse behalf we pray; for He to whom we pray is Himself the Resurrection and the Life.

James! James! what has happened to you?"

And the man answered, "Jesus of Nazareth cast all the devils out of me, and then sent me home to you all safe and well. Jesus, did you never hear of him?" Then the children began to get confidence in Him, and pretty soon they came and climbed up into his arms, and that broken-hearted family are united once more. Then they run out and tell their playmates, "Papa is come; papa is come; and he is good and gentle like your papa. Jesus did it; Jesus did it!"

Ah. my friends, Jesus is the Great Deliverer.

"Papa is come; papa is come; and he is good and gentle like your papa. Jesus did it; Jesus did it!"

Ah, my friends, Jesus is the Great Deliverer, the Great Physician; I like to think of Him as the Physician, who can cure everything. He never lost a case, and that is more than our most skillful doctors in Chicago can say.

The next case is of a poor woman, who has spent all her living on the doctors, and none of them have done her any good. She has been up to the Jerusalem doctors, and perhaps she has been down to Memphis in Egypt to see the doctors there. They have got all her money, but they haven't done her any good, but rather have made her worse. She has given up all hope long ago. But one day a neighbor came in to see her, and says, "Have you heard of Jesus of Nazareth, who is caring so many sick people just with a word!"

"No," says the sick woman, "I haven't."

"Well, they say He cursd a man at the pool of Bethesda the other day, who had been sick for thirty-eight years. Another man was sick of the palsy at Capernaum, and they let him down through the roof into the midst of the crowd, fight before Jesus, and, as soon as He saw it, He told the man to rise, and sure enough, he got right up and slung his bed over his shoulder and started off for home sound and well. He is the greatest physician that ever was seen in this country."

"What does He charge?" asks the woman. That is an important point with her, for she has spent all her money long ago.

"Nothing at all. He cures for nothing; the poor as well as the rich."

"Well," says the sick woman, "if He ever comes into these parts, I will try to go and see Him."

GEN. GILES A. SMITH.

Special Dispatch to The Tribuna.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 8.—The tuneral services of Gen. Giles A. Smith were held here to-day in the Methodist Church. The Chaplain of the Governor's Guards, a military company from Springfield, read the burial service. The Rev. T. A. Parker, of the Methodist Church, delivered a prayer, and the Rev. J. W. Densmore, of the Second Presbyterian Church, the sermon. He was buried with full military honors. The cortege was very large, composed of prominent citizens, State officers, and friends of the deceased. A brass gun captured in the Mexican war, sent here from Springfield to fire the customary salutes, burst. Nobody was hurt.

stantine," says he, "opposite the Church of S. Silvestro, in a garden belonging to Bernardo Acceaguoli, were found two enormous subterranean vaults, 100 palms long and thirty wide, filled with several thousand corpses. The entrance to these dreadful vaults had been carefully stopped up, and the bodies were packed so close, one on the top of the other, that there remained hardly a cubic foot of space free." I do not doubt that a burial-place so singular owed its existence to one of those terrible epidemics which ravaged the city between the twelfth and sixteenth centuries. It is, therefore, no wonder that during the great heats of summer the excavations have to be suspended from regard to the public health; and that when, under exceptional circumstances, something has to be done, it is often effected at the cost of the life or health of the workmen. The construction has been commenced of a collecting-drain, to connect the basin of the Coliscum with the Tiber, passing through the Via Triumphalis and the valley of the Circus Maximus. In digging for this purpose, at the great depth of 3s feet, the workmen came upon a reservoir of water of the eighth century B. C. A young architect was sent to sketch the monument. Some hours after he had an attack of fever which nearly tost him his life; and the same happened to one who had helped him. At the beginning of last July, when the tenders for the construction of the railway from Rome to Fiumicino were adjudicated, this remarkable posteript was added: "All the workmen who shall assist in the works have a right to an unlimited distribution of quimine. Those who work in the neighborhood of Fiumicino will have a right to the great distribution at the cemetery."

Price of Food in Old Times.

English Magasiae.

Amid the never-ending comments on the high price of provisions, it is difficult for us to realize the fact that a time existed in Britain's history when wheat, as food for 100 for a whole day, was worth only a shilling, and the average price of sheep four pence. In the reign of Henry L the price of wine was raised to six pence a quart for red and eight pence a quart for white, in order that the sellers might be enabled to live by it. When wheat was at six shillings a quart (eight bushels), the farthing loaf was to be equal in weight to twenty-four onness if made of the whole grain, and to six teen ounces if consisting solely of white. And when wheat was only one shilling and six pence per quarter, as it sometimes was, the farthing white load was to contain sixty-four ounces, and the whole grain ninety-six. Think of purchasing a six-pound loaf of good wheaten bread for a farthing! In the nineteenth year of the reign of Edward L, the price of provisions of the City of London was fixed by the Common Council at a tariff by which two pullets were sold at three half-pence, a partridge or two woodcocks for the same, while a lat lamb was to be six pence from Christmas to Shrovetide, and the rest of the year four pence. In the fourteenth century Parliament fixed the price of a fat ox at forty-eight shillings, a shorn sheep at five shillings, two dozen ergs at three pence, and the best wine at twenty shillings per tun. An act of Parliament, passed in 1553, settled the value of beef and pork at a half-penny per pound, and veal at three farthings.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Times thinks that Russia has not the financial strength to sustain a part in a European war. To prove his point, he adduces the evidence of the fascal history of the country for the last century. Catherine the Second began the issue of paper money in 1768 in neder to scene funds for war on the Turks. In 1774, the circulation was limited by ukase to 20,000,000 roubles, and in 1788 to 100,000,000 roubles, but the issues went on to 158,000,000 before Catherine's, death to 577,000,000 in 1817, when the value of the paper money was 25 cents on the dollar. The assignate were then partially funded in 5 and 6 per cent bonds, selling between 72 and 83. In 1839, 505,000,000 of paper roubles remained. By 1843, the amount was reduced to 170,000,000 roubles, and they were finally brought to par by the secumilation of a reserve fund of half the amount in circulation, and the investment of 100,000,000 roubles in foreign government stocks. In 1857, however, the expenses of the Crimean war had swelled the roubles to 735,-000,000, and specie payments were suspended.

tinued from the Second Page.) Republican was followed by a general outbreak of blacks, who were superior in numbers to the whites, and who opened a general fire with pistols and rifles upon the whites, taking complete possession of the street for a time. The whites soon rallied and sharp firing occurred. Intense excitement reigned throughout the city for some hours. The companies of United Stater troops in the city double-quicked to the scene, and dispersed the crowd, and now have charge of the streets. of the Fourth Ward and Sixth of the Fifth—would give a net Republican majority of about 100, which would bring Comiskey's majority in the city down to 124. Returns from swenty-seven towns and precincts of towns (out of fifty-three give Brockway 5,300, and Comiskey, 3,011, or a net majority for the former in the county as now reported of 2,007. The remaining towns will add about 700 to this, and of course elect the Republican with great case.

CLERK CIRCUIT COURT.

Gross is elected Clerk of the Circuit Court by a vote just about the same as that of Brockway given above. He is defeated in the city by 500, but receives 2,480 majority in the same towns calculated for Brockway above. The remainder of the county will add about 500 to his present majority of 2,000. The total vote so far received for Clerk is: Gross, 35,216; Rummel, 33,406.

The smooth are the acknowledged strongholds of the Times party. In the various basements and back-door resorts popular with the Democrats, were gathered groups of would-be some-bodies at different times during the day. The O'Brien crowd were to be seen frequently in Foley's saloon on Clark street, imbibing sundry mashes of hallelujah proportions. They were jubilant. McGarry's, Kirchhoff's, and the Tivoli witnessed numerous handshakings among the brethren of the Tilden persuasion. No disturbances of any political importance or otherwise occurred, although there was a vast deal of lond talk wasted.

At the greater hotels transpired scemes something similar to those that occurred Tuesday evening, only the excitement was somewhat toned down. The Palmer House, of course, was the centre of attraction. Here collected the wisdom of the Democracy at the comparatively early hour of 11 o'clock in the forencon. The Central Committees, State and County, had large de egations early in the field, and their numbers were augumented by various backs and war-borses of local fame, whose names have been so often mentioned in connection with that resort that the patience of the reader will not be tired in their recital again. The rotunda was uncomfortably well-populated all day, and diagnasions and speculations were rife. The scene at the Grand Pacific was much the same as at the Palmer. Returns were posted up in front of the telegraph office in the rotunda, and were the subject of constant consultation. The Sherman House presented an everyday appearance, and one could scarcely believe from its looks that this was the day after a great political struggle, so quiet did everything seem. As for the Tremont House, that Cons of the most notable and at the same time one of the most subdued and unostentations of the society events of this season was the wed-ding which took place last night in the Second Presbyterian Church and the wedding reception which followed the ceremony. THE LAW INSTITUTE.

ANNUAL MEETING AND ELECTION OF OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Chicago Law Institute, held on Monday, the following report was submitted by the Librarian, Jusius Rosen-

Provincial Reports, 107 volumes; State papers, 532 volumes; trials, 132 volumes; civil and constitutional law, 186 volumes; proof-sheets, 25 volumes; catalogues, 37 volumes; directóries, 23 volumes; catalogues, 33 volumes; duplicates, 88 volumes; miscellaneous, 229 volumes. Total 88 volumes; miscelianeous, 229 volumes. Total, 8, 459 volumes.

The "miscelianeous" in the above list consist of history of the law, legal biography, and legal bibliography, exployedias, law tracts, and speeches, etc. We have lost during the year only two books.—Tucker's Pleadings, and Throop on, verbal Agreements,—as far as I can ascertain; a very favorable showing.

In using the books the members should avoid the practice of making "dog's ears," and folding and breaking the pages and backs of books, and should not violate the rules in regard to the retaining of books in private offices and counting-rooms beyond the time they are actually needed.

I find the library deficient in the following respects:

beyond the time they are actually needed.

I find the library deficient in the following respects:

I. In good English editions of about 100 volumes of the Common Law Reporters, now included in the American Common Law Set. This set is in many ways poor. Some of the cases are mangled, others passed by with simply the syllabus, and others entirely omitted. For these reasons, and on account of the complexity of the paring, this set does not meet the wants of the members of the Institute.

M. In English editions of many of the Chancery reporters, of which we now have American editions, which, though generally fair, are not as convenient or useful as the English. Maddock's Reports are especially poor.

Ill. In a number of tea old common law writings such as Statham, Brooke's Abridgment, etc.

IV. In a number of tea-books, American and English, on a variety of important subjects. We have on our shelves not quite 1,300, while the whole number is estimated at 2,000.

V. In the Session Laws of the several States. We have about 629, with an order for 110 outstanding, while the whole number is estimated at over 1,500.

VI. In all the Scotch and portion of the Irish common law and chancery reports.

VII. In some of the American reports, of which I would specially mention First to Fifth, Gill & Johnson, Maryland: First to Fifth, Seventh and Thirteenth Vermont; Alken, Vermont; 2 Rhode laiant; all of which are exceedingly scarce.

VIII. In some of the English reports, such as Spinks, Swabey, Lushington, etc., which either could not be found at all or, if found, commanded exorbitant prices.

Besides alling these deficiencies, 4t is estimated

Spinks, Swabey, Lushington, etc., which either could not be found at all or, if found, commanded exorbitant prices.

Besides filling these deficiencies, 4t is estimated that during the ensuing year there will have to be purchased 110 volumes of new American and English Reports, eighty volumes of new text-books, and twenty-live volumes law periodicals. The prices to be paid for State Reports are pretty high in the average. Mr. Griswold, Librarian Law Department, State Library, says: "Seab State should own the copyright in its Judicial reports, and prevent any monopoly in their publication. The people should be supplied with the decisions of the courts at reasonable rates. The prices of the current volumes of the American Reports vary from $1 (New York Court of Appeals) and $2.50 (Ohio) to $10 (Louisiana)."

Considering all of which, and taking into account the various resources of the Institute, your Librarian would recommend an assessment of $15 for the coming year, as a low estimate of the amount necessary to meet our yearly expenses.

I now thank you for the indulgence and unexceptionable kind treatment I have received from you whilst occupying the position of Librarian for the last nine or ten years, and sincerely hope that you will now elect a new man as my successor, who, whether I should be a member of your Board or not, could rely upon my heartiest co-operation.

Committee.

It was my special aim to obtain every new volume of reports and every new text-book as speedily as possible, and that such works on general jurisprudence, history, philosophy, bibliography and legal biography should be added as would enhance the value of our library, not only to the "case lawyer," so called, but to the jurist and the true student of the law as a science.

The number of books in the library, upon actual count, is 8, 459 volumes, while the Supreme Court Library at Mt. Vernon has 3, 500 volumes, at Ottawa 4, 500, at Springfield 5, 500, and at the time of publication of certain late statistics our library was the tenth, and is now probably the seventh, in size of the law libraries of the United States.

The following is a distribution of the books in the Library: Text-tooks, 1, 292 volumes; American Reports, 2, 528 volumes; English and Irish Reports, 1, 552 volumes; statutes, American, 282 volumes; statutes, English, 244 volumes; session laws, 680 volumes; bound periodicals, 286 volumes; Provincial Reports, 107 volumes; 25tate papers, Bar. Shortly before last midnight a crowd of drunken bummers—Democrats and Hoxie re-tormers of course—marched over from Democratic quarters to the Grand Pacific Hotel, and taking up position in the rotunda of the hotel began to make the night hideous with drunken ribaldry and screeds upon a snareless drum and cracked fife. The Republicans there assembled, for the purpose of fearing the returns, stood the insult until patience ceased to be a virtue, and then they pounced down upon the cattle and summarily ejected them. Not long are the good ship Star Queen lay in the East River, near pier nine, the usual scene of bustle and excitement incident to a vessel's sailing in progress on her deck and on the wharf near by. Perched gracefully on her bow, and resplendent in purple and gold, was the figure of a woman, a shapely carving, and a better bit of workmanship than the average figurehead seen along the water front. An antumn sun gilied her tresses and cast a pillar of light in the wavelets at her feet. The day before she sailed the tide nad fallen and the Star Queen sank lower and lower, until she nearly touched the edge of the wharf. The men on bon dinad noticed a little stranger who came daily to sit at the feet of the Queen. He was a bootblack, very ragged, very muddy, very hourse, and very hungry. The following morning it was discovered that some one had wound a strip of bright-colored ribbon around the Star Queen's neck. It was suffered to remain where it had been placed. At last the moment came when hawsers were cast off and the vessel headed out into the stream. Finging aside his box, the little boot-black darted at the figure-head, and, winding his arms affectionately about its neck, kissed the wooden image tenderly on the mouth, and then burst into tears. CONFERENCE

BRUSSHIS, Nov. 8.—The Le Nord to-day says that Russia insists on an early conference of the Powers on the basis of the English proposals. Gen. Ignatieff, the Russian Ambassador at Constantinople, has been instructed to support energetically a large measure of administrative autonomy for Bosnia, Herzegovina, and Bulgaria, with efficacious guarantees, under the control of the Powers.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A Paris dispatch says: Intelligence received here state that Mr. Elliott, the British Ambassador at Constantinople, will communicate to the Porte the English proposals relative to the conference. The proposals in question are worded so as to enable either Russia or Turkey to make counter proposals. The Porte will not reply until it knows the tenor of the answer of the Great Powers. It is believed that France and Italy will maintain reserve until aware of Russia's views. Austria has semi-officially announced her intention to await the answer of the other Powers. THE ARKANSAS TRAGEDY.

THE ARKANSAS TRAGEDY.

The Rev. W. H. Metheny guraishes to the Western Methodist, published at Memphis, Tenn., the following particulars of the shooting of three Methodist ministers at Fort Douglas, Ark., a few days since, a brief statement in regard to which has already been published:

On our return from Conference, several of us were the subjects of a very and incident, the particulars of which I give you. It seems the United States Marshals had been very active for some time arresting parties for real, and in some instances perhaps supposed, violations of law, until a great many citizens had become considerably excited on the subject. Some parties had resolved to resist the authorities, and rumor had it that sixteen Marshals were expected in that vicinity to execute the law. The Rev. B. Williams, A. H. Williams, George Pledger, and myself had crossed Boston Mountain on the morning of Oct. 25, and come down on Harricane Creek about noon. Brothers A. H. Williams and Pledger, young men, traveled together, and they were some distance ahead. They arrived at Fort Douglas, on Big Piney, shoot 5 o'clock in the afternoon. We had traveled all day without feeding, and they young men thought probably we would like to put up for the night. Erother Williams went into a house to make inquiry for accommodations, and Brother Pledger walked over to a shop, just across the road from the house. The back, part of the shop, towards the mountain, was all open. He had been standing there but a few minutes when he was shot from the mountain. He fell upon his face, and said, "I am killed!" The owner of the shop, towards the mountain. He fell upon his face, and said. "I am killed!" The owner of the shop, her. Williams and told him not to go, or try to go, to his friend. Brother Williams ired to get other parties to help him bring Brother Pledger out of the shop, but none would go. 'So Brother Williams mounted his horse to ride back and hurry myself and his father, Brother Bedger, and we left out of his parties to help him bring Broth

ELECTION MURDERS. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—A special to the Journal last night from Newcastle, Ind., reports that John Runyan, a Democrat, shot and killed Charles Pressalt, a Republican, while engaged in a political discussion.

A special to the same paper from Anderso Ind., says: "A man named Whitlock struck a colored man on the head, when a man named Leonard interfered in behalf of the negro. The City Marshal, Dougherty, then interfered, and struck Leonard a terrible blow on the head, from the effects of which he died soon after." the effects of which he died soon after."

The most intense excitement prevails at Newcastle to-day over the murder of Pressais. An attempt was made last night to mob Rhnyan, but it did not succeed. It is feared that another attempt will be made to-night.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 8.—A special from Annapolis says that Deputy Sheriff Benjamin Leech was shot and killed by a colored man at the polls in the Eighth District of Anne Arundel County, yesterday.

MATRICIDE.

To the Western Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 8.—Reperts were received here to-day of a bloody tragedy in the ceived here to-day of a bloody tragedy in the northeast part of Dallas County. A man named Maran and his brother got in a quarrel. Their mother interfered to separate them, when Maran drew a large knife and plunged it into her body, killing her instantly. The brother then fled, Maran's children going with him. Maran followed with the knife, but they effected their escape. Maran went to a Catholic priest at Dallas Center, and when he reached him threw up his hands, saying: "I have killed my mother; see, see the blood!" He was greater mother; see, see the blood!" He was arrested and lodged in jail.

SECRET SOCIETIES IN CHINA.

ecruiting the Ranks of the Hung League Pall Mall Gazette.

In peaceful times the ranks of the society are recruited by volunteers, but when the League is preparing to take the field threats and violence are often used to secure mem-bers. At such crisis a may returning home finds a slip of paper bearing the seal of the League awaiting—him, which calls upon him at a given hour to betake himself to a certain spot, and warns him that the murder of himself and his family will be the penalty of disobedience to the command. Sometimes it is said, also, that one of the brotherhood insults a stranger on the road, and, pretending to fly from the just consequences of his act, leads the unsuspecting wayfarer to some lonely spot where he is seized upon by a number of brothers and is carried away to the place where the lodge is held. On the appointed evening the recruits present themselves at the "City of Willows," as the lodges are called, where they are met by the "vanguard," who carefully enters their names and places of residence is a book kept for the purpose. The vanguard then gives orders to form the "bridge of swords," whereupon the brethren place themselves in a double row, and, drawing their swords, cross them in the air in the form of a bridge or arch. Under this arch the new members are icd, and at the same time are mulcted of an entrance fee of twenty-one cash. After this they are taken to the Hung-gate, where stands two Generals, who introduce the "new horses" to the Hall of Fidelity and Loyalty. Here the neophytes are instructed in the objects of the society; and, finally, they are conducted into the presence of the assembled council in the "Lodge of Universal Peace." As a preliminary to the administration of the oaths, the Master examines the vanguard in the 333 questions of the catechism of the society, and then orders him to bring forward those neophytes who are willing to take the oath, and to cut off the heads of those who refuse to do so. As the vanguard is supposed not to bear the sword in vain, few decline to take the oath, and the ceremony of affiliation is proceeded with by cutting off the queues of the recruits (though this operation is dispensed with if the members are living among Chinese who are faithful to the Tratar rule), by washing their faces and exhan

The other day a man was hung at Tanna-Fort, near Bombuy, for a horrible murder, and made rathe a notable observation in Gujerati. Standing under the drop he whispered to the executioner, "In one minute what a lot I shall know."

Life on Shipboard---Crossing the Line
---Shaving and Keel-Hauling.

The Coast of Brazil--- The Harbor and City of Rio de Janeiro --- Dom Pedro II.

In November, 1848, while temporarily out of employ, I was sauntering down Wall street, New York, when I met Henry Conillard, an old and esteemed friend, who halled me and inquired what I was doing and whither bound. On receiving my answer, he told me that he had just been appointed to the command of the United States propeller Edith, which vessel was to be dispatched to Monterey and San Francisco, Cal., with Government passengers and stores.

"And now, friend Sam," said my friend, "as you have doubled the Horn and been through the Straffs, while I am totally inexperienced in that navigation, I think you had better take the spare state-room in the Edith's cabin, and have spare state-room in the Edith's cabin, and have a look at the Pacific coast again, where who knows but something may turn up which will eventuate to your lasting benefit?"

Nothing could have better chimed with my inclinations at that moment, for I had spent many a delightful day in Chili and Peru in years gone by, and I longed for a change from the stormy European trade, in which I had last been engaged.

My sea-kit was always in readiness, and, hav ing made a few last and tender adieux, behold me, on the 7th day of November, 1848, while our President Harrison was being elected, on board the Edith, flying seaward before a strong and

A few days sufficied to render all the passengers familiar, as those who had to depend upon each other for social enjoyments during a long and tedious passage; after which I commenced keeping a "log" of our voyage, for Lieut. Maury, of the National Observatory at Washington.

Maury, of the National Observatory at Washington.

A sca-life is one of dire monotony at best, broken at times by the occurrence of a gale, or the more startling excitement of losing a man overboard. Aside from these events, day succeeds day in one unbroken round of listless inactivity. I speak of passenger-life now, for the poor tar "eats no idle bread" and has no holidays at sea.

The Sabbath brings a day's respite from labor to the denizens of "terra-firms"; but there is no change in the sailor's life of incessant toll. No Sabbath-bell may fill his ears with holy music, calling him to the worship of the Omnipotence that rules his ocean-home as well as the lofty palace and the lowly cot.

These opinions of sailor-life are my later conclusions; for, at the time of which I write, I was looked upon by ail my friends as a most irreclaimable rover, whose sole delight was

To roam o'er the white sea-foam.

CEOSSING THE LINE.

We crossed the Equator on the 1st of December, when the novitiates among the passengers were duly presented to 1st for December, when the novitiates among the passengers were duly presented to 1st domains, after taking the solemn oath or obligation, part of which was, "Never to eat hard tack when they could kiss the mistress" (a clause often more agreeably honored in the breach than in the observance); and many more pledges equally important and no less facetious.

For the information of those who are ignorant of the fact, I with to degards some of the performances which used to take place on almost all ships on crossing from North to South latitude, and particularly on the British East-Indiamen, in olden times, say forty years ago.

SHAYING AND KERL-HAULING.

When the vessel approached the Equator, preparations were made for a good time generally to all but the luckless novices who for the first time were about to "cross the line." The exact time to an bour could be told by solar observation; and, just as the Equator was being crossed, one of the most stalwart of the crew, perfectly disguised with huge whiskers and flowing locks, composed of oakum, and dripping with ocean-brine, came over the bows, with trideut on his shoulder and speaking-trumpet in his hand, demanding, with the voice of a Stentor. "If any strangers were entering his sacred domains." The new-comers were forced to the front; and Neptune, having addressed them in a long rigmarole, received them into his family,—if young ladies, by kissing them, and diulcing them in a bottle of brandy; or, if of the coarser sex, by tirning them over to the three rough subjects who followed in his train. One of these seized the novitiate, holding him tightly. One was armed with a pot of tar, slush, and somethines more mauseous compounds, and a rusty iron hoop; the other with a huge paint after a short breathing-spell, he was doused again.

This proceeding, as may well be imagined, was fraught with real dangers, and, in fact, several victims perished during the ordeal, receiving heavy blows on the head against the ship's keel; while an instance is recorded where a voracious shark mangled a body fatally during its transit under the keel. These accidents were brought to the notice of the Government, and the practice was thereafter abolished by legal enactment.

THE BRAZILIAN COAST.

on the 18th of December we made Cape Frio, a few miles to the northward of the Brazilian Capital, and, running close along the land, we enjoyed a fine view of the coast, whose scenery

Capital, and, running close along the land, we enjoyed a fine view of the coast, whose scenery is unequaled.

The most prominent headlands south of Cape Frio are La Gavia, or "Lord Hood's Nose," so called because its outline of a human face bore a strong resemblance to that British functionary's Wellingtonian nose; Corcovado, the Suga-Loaf; and, far inland, the magnificent Organ Mountains, with their finely-pointed peaks piercing the azure sky.

HARBOR OF RIO.

The next morning, at daylight, we got up steam, and ran down under the very walls of the fortress of Santa Cruz, where, having answered the sentry's hall, we were told to "pass on," and soon anchored under the protecting guns of our noble frigate Brandywine, and opposite the Hotel Pharoux.

It would require an abler pen than mine to give a faithful picture of the natural beauties of the harbor of Rio. Nature, in her kindest mood, has here formed a harbor free from all obstruction, and stranger-sailors bring their ships safely to the anchorage without the aid of a pilot, where they are iree from every ocean-binat or billow. Away to the westward rise the Organ Mountains. I do not know who gave them their cuphonious name, but I believe that any one seeing them for the first time would think at once of some grand old cathedral-organ, with its sounding and finely-tapering pipes.

however, with its narrow, filthy streets, is not in harmony with the harbor-scene. Nearly opposite the Hotel Pharoux—the Delmonico's of Rio, though it would pass for no more than a very mediocre saloon with us—stood the Emperor's town-palace, more plain and simple than one would suppose, although its interior magnificence more than balances its democratic exterior. I frequently met the Brazilian Emperor, Dom Pedro II., on his weekly rounds to the arsenals, ship-yards, and other public works. On rising from our early ship's breakfast, I often saw him on horseback, making his morning-calls at the arsenal and foundries.
